

PCTI Parents Go “Back to School”

Wayne, NJ – FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – Passaic County Technical Institute (PCTI) opened its doors for the much anticipated Back to School Night, an event which encourages parents and guardians to experience a day in the life of PCTI students. Adults met with teachers and got the inside scoop on class curriculums and expectations.

Visitors were greeted in the lobby with an abundance of spirit from student volunteers, faculty, and staff. The Tech Bullpen was open to all and boasted a great deal of Bulldog pride via the school’s famous “Tech Gear.” From there, guests were invited into the gymnasium to gather information on PCTI’s clubs and organizations.

The night officially started at 6:30 when classes began. Learning was in the air as attendees were treated to interactive Q&A sessions with teachers. Back to School Night showcased PCTI’s educational styling in both advanced academics and Career and Technical Education.

Judging by the fantastic turnout, PCTI’s Back to School Night was a complete success!

Photo Caption 0006: Teen Pep students Pratik Patel (Clifton), Kyara Castano (Passaic), and Eysin Contreras (Passaic) gather with Advisor Janice DeYoung at the annual Back to School Night event.

Photo Caption: PCTI Instructor Howard Stein speaks with parents about what TV Production students will learn this year.