Lead Level Analysis in Drinking Water at Passaic County Technical Institute

As mandated by the State of New Jersey, all public schools are required to test for lead levels in the drinking water.

PCTI is pleased to announce that lead in drinking water analysis was done on August 12, 2016 by Ramm Environmental Services, Fairlawn, NJ. The results affirmed that lead levels in PCTI's drinking water throughout the campus are well below the allowable state standard.

Analysis results are available upon request.
