Parents Get “Schooled” at PCTI’s Back to School Night

Wayne, NJ – FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – On Thursday October 1st, Passaic County Technical Institute (PCTI) opened its doors to parents and guardians for Back to School Night, an event that encourages all visitors to experience a day in the life of their students.

Those in attendance received an inside look at the classes, curriculum, and clubs open to students of PCTI. Guests were greeted in the lobby by student volunteers, faculty, and staff who showcased an abundance of knowledge and that good old fashioned Bulldog enthusiasm. Members of PCTI’s clubs and organizations were stationed in the gymnasium with tables to provide information to interested guests.

Attendees were then invited to begin their journey through a typical day of classes, where they encountered PCTI’s educational styling in advanced academics and career and technical education. Q&A sessions with instructors rounded out the evening.

Instructor Luis Colon speaks with parents about the Graphic Design curriculum at Passaic County Technical Institute.

PCTI cheerleaders Mikayla Magna (Hawthorne), Ashley Gulliksen (Haskell), and Denise Callaghan-Crespo (Haskell), act as volunteers and direct parents around campus at the Back to School Night event.
